

Die Autorinnen und Autoren der Abhandlungen

Otfried Czaika, Norwegian School of Theology, Gydas vei 4, Pb. 5144 Majorstuen, NO-0302 Oslo, Norwegen, e-mail: otfried.czaika@mf.no

Seit 2013 Professor für Kirchengeschichte mit dem Schwerpunkt Reformationsgeschichte an Det teologiske menighetsfakultet [Norwegian School of Theology] in Oslo. Studium der evangelischen Theologie, Germanistik, Skandinavistik und Finno-Ugristik in München, Linköping und Uppsala, 2002 Promotion zum Dr. theol. in Helsinki (David Chytræus und die Universität Rostock in ihren Beziehungen zum schwedischen Reich). Von 2003 bis 2007 Lehrstuhlvertretung für Kirchengeschichte an der Universität Linköping, zwischen 2007 und 2013 Forscher und Bibliothekar an der Königlichen Bibliothek in Stockholm und der schwedischen Nationalbibliothek. Er hat zahlreiche Artikel und Bücher zur skandinavischen Kirchengeschichte der Frühneuzeit, der schwedischen und finnischen Buchgeschichte und zur skandinavischen Verfassungsgeschichte veröffentlicht, zuletzt eine kommentierte Ausgabe des schwedischen Gesangbuches von 1582 (Then Swenska Psalmeboken 1582. Utgåva med inledande kommentarer, Helsinki u.a. 2016).

Mikko Ketola, Department of Church History, PL 4, 00014 University of Helsinki, Finland, e-mail: mikko.ketola@helsinki.fi

Docent and University Lecturer in Church History at the Department of Church History, University of Helsinki. His doctoral dissertation (2000) was „The Nationality Question in the Estonian Evangelical-Lutheran Church, 1918–1939“; 2007–2013 President of the Finnish Society of Church History; since 2010 Secretary of Commission Internationale d’Histoire d’Études du Christianisme (CIHEC). He has published numerous articles on Finnish and Baltic church history, the history of the Catholic Church in the 20th and 21st centuries, and the Ukrainian Churches after the fall of Communism. He is currently writing a monograph on the Estonian Evangelical-Lutheran Church during the World War II. He was President of the Finnish Society of Church History in 2007–2013. Since 2010 he is Secretary of Commission Internationale d’Histoire d’Études du Christianisme (CIHEC).

Nils S. Konstantinovs, Rīga, e-mail: nils.konstantinovs@gmail.com

Doctoral student at Cambridge Theological Federation and research assistant at University of Latvia. Lectures on Pneumatology at the Faculty of Theology in Latvia. His main research interests are in the field of spirituality and mental health. He has written extensively on contemporary issues including church affairs in Latvia.

Marcus Moberg, Department of Comparative Religion, Åbo Akademi University, Turku, Finland, e-mail: marcus.moberg@abo.fi

Senior Researcher „Young Adults and Religion in a Global Perspective: A Cross-Cultural, Comparative and Mixed-Method Study of Religious Subjectivities and Values in their Context“ (YARG), Åbo Akademi University Centre of Excellence in Research 2015–2018, Academy of Finland Project 2016–2018. His work has appeared in journals such as Religion, New Media and Society, Journal of Contemporary Religion, Fieldwork in Religion, Culture and Religion, Popular Music and Society, Popular Music History and Temenos. Nordic

Journal of Comparative Religion. He is the author of „Christian Metal: History, Ideology, Scene“ (Bloomsbury Academic 2015); „Church, Market and Media: A Discursive Approach to Institutional Religious Change“ (Bloomsbury Academic 2017); co-editor (with Kennet Granholm and Sofia Sjö) of „Religion, Media, and Social Change“ (Routledge 2015), and (with Christopher Partridge) of „The Bloomsbury Handbook of Religion and Popular Music“ (Bloomsbury Academic 2017).

Martin Pabst, Lutherstr. 25, 24114 Kiel, e-mail: martin-pabst@gmx.de

Studium der Neueren und Neuesten Geschichte, Mittleren Geschichte, ev. Theologie und Musikwissenschaft in Münster (Westf.); 2014 Promotion zum Dr. phil. in Geschichtswissenschaft an der Christian-Albrechts-Universität zu Kiel mit einer Arbeit zur „Typologisierbarkeit von Städtereformation und die Stadt Riga als Beispiel“; seit 2016 Wissenschaftlicher Leiter der Deutschbaltischen Studienstiftung in Lüneburg. Publikationen: Die Typologisierbarkeit von Städtereformation und die Stadt Riga als Beispiel, Frankfurt/Main 2015 (Kieler Werkstücke Reihe G: Beiträge zur Frühen Neuzeit, Bd. 7); Verschwörung – Empörung – Zerstörung. Das Jahr 1524 als Schlüsseljahr der Reformation in Riga, in: Deutsch-Baltisches Jahrbuch 63 (2015), S. 42-63; Deutschbaltischer Neubeginn 1945–1952, in: Forschungen zur Baltischen Geschichte 8 (2013), S. 165-191; Der Aufstand in der St. Georgsnacht 1343, in: Jahrbuch des baltischen Deutschtums 57 (2009), S. 9-16.

Irina Paert, University of Tartu, School of Theology and Religious Studies, Ülikooli 18, 50090 Tartu, Estonia, e-mail: irina@paert.com

Senior researcher, coordinator of the research project „Altar and the Classroom: history of the Orthodox schools in Livland in 1870–1914“ (Estonian Research Council). She is the author of two monographs: „Old Believers, Gender and Religious Dissent in Russia, 1760–1850“ (Manchester 2003); „Spiritual Elders: Charisma, Tradition and Russian Orthodoxy“ (DeKalb, ILL 2010) and of several articles published in The Russian Review, Slavic Review, Slavonica, Usuteadus ajakiri, the Journal of Baltic Studies and several collective monographs in Russian, English and Estonian language.

Sebastian Rimestad, Universität Erfurt, Nordhäuser Str. 63, 99089 Erfurt, e-mail: sebastian.rimestad@uni-erfurt.de Studium der Politikwissenschaft, Internationale Beziehungen und Religionswissenschaft in Aberdeen, Tartu und Erfurt; 2011 Promotion zum Dr. phil. in Religionswissenschaft an der Universität Erfurt zum Thema „The Challenges of Modernity to the Orthodox Church in Estonia and Latvia (1917–1940)“. Er forscht seit 2012 am Lehrstuhl Religionswissenschaft (Kulturgeschichte des Orthodoxen Christentums) der Universität Erfurt. Publikationen u.a.: The Challenges of Modernity to the Orthodox Church in Estonia and Latvia (1917–1940), Frankfurt/Main 2012; mit Łukasz Fajfer: The Patriarchates of Constantinople and Moscow in a global age: a comparison, in: International Journal for the Study of the Christian Church 10 (2010), Nr. 2-3, S. 211-227; The Russian Orthodox Church in Western Europe: one or many?, in: Religion, State and Society 43 (2015), Nr. 3, S. 228-243; Erster Weltkrieg und orthodoxe Theologie. Renaissance und Neuorientierung im Pariser Exil, in: Lean Herberg, Sebastian Holzbrenner (Hrsg.): Theologie im Kontext des Ersten Weltkriegs – Aufbrüche und Gefährdungen, Würzburg 2016, S. 155-170.

Priit Rohtmets, University of Tartu, School of Theology and Religious Studies, Ülikooli 18, 50090 Tartu; Theological Institute of the Estonian Evangelical Lutheran Church, Pühavaimu 6, 10123 Tallinn, Estonia, e-mail: priit.rohtmets@ut.ee

Professor of Church History at the Theological Institute of the Estonian Evangelical Lutheran Church and a researcher of church history at the University of Tartu, Estonia. He is the vice-chairman of the Estonian Society of Church History, and a member of the research project at the University of Tartu „Secularization (De-institutionalization and De-Christianization): Religion in Estonia from the Modern Period to the Present“. His research is focusing on the Estonian, Baltic and Scandinavian church history in the 19th and 20th centuries, the emergence of national theology, church-state relations, the relationship between nationalism and religion in Northern Europe, the history of the Orthodox church in the 20th century and the ecumenical movement in the Baltic States and the Balkans. His articles have appeared in the Journal of Baltic Studies, Religion, State & Society, Journal of Church and State and in the Journal of Ecumenical Studies.

Valdis Tēraudkalns, University of Latvia, Faculty of Theology, Raiņa bulv. 19, 1586 Rīga, Latvia, e-mail: valdis.teraudkalns@lu.lv

Professor of Church History and History of Religions at Faculty of Theology, University of Latvia, corresponding member of the Latvian Academy of Sciences. His main research interests are the relation between religion and politics, religion and gender and church history in the 19th and 20th centuries. He has published a number of articles in Latvian and English peer-reviewed journals. He is also author of several monographs.

Toomas Schvak, University of Tartu, School of Theology and Religious Studies, Ülikooli 18, 50090 Tartu, Estonia, e-mail: toomas.schvak@gmail.com

PhD student at the School of Theology at the University of Tartu, Estonia. His main research interest is the history of the Orthodox Church in Estonia, particularly in the first half of the 20th century. His doctoral thesis was „The Formation and Development of the Autonomous Orthodox Church in Estonia in 1917–1940“. He has participated in several research projects for example on secularisation and desecularisation in Estonia and on the history of Orthodox schools and education in Estonia. He has also authored a number of peer-reviewed and popular articles on his research topics and has published two monographs on the history of Orthodox congregations in Estonia. His last publication to date is an article on the question of canonical jurisdiction in the Estonian Orthodox Church, published in the journal Russki Sbornik (2016).